WELLNESS CENTER FEES

Frasier members may choose from the following Wellness Center options:

Membership

This option is for unsupervised use of the Wellness Center, including independent use of the strength training and cardiovascular equipment and use of the pools. Also included are wellness lectures, as well as a large variety of classes. Resident members pay a one-time registration fee.

Daily Guest Pass

Visiting guests of residents, who are staying at Frasier, may use the Wellness Center free of charge and must sign a liability waiver.

Personal Training

For a small fee, an individual can hire one of our highly trained wellness specialists to develop an individualized workout program to meet your wellness goals and needs.

Small Group Personal Training

Two to four individuals can hire one of our wellness specialists for an hour of sport-specific training. This could include, but is not limited to skiing, running, cycling, floor pilates, balance, etc.

Be strong and thrive

Our staff members are highly trained and up to date on all the latest recommendations and practices for senior health and wellness. Through the Wellness Center’s strength training program, we’ll help you use the HUR® senior-specific strength training equipment to keep your muscles strong and fit. We’ll also teach methods of postural alignment and pain-free movement – setting your goals, then helping you achieve them in a group setting or one-on-one with a personal trainer. Additionally, we assist with your rehabilitative therapy, working with our therapy department to help you regain your optimum level of fitness and health.

Here at the Wellness Center, our aim is to rejuvenate your body, mind and spirit so that you can live a well balanced, active life throughout your “golden years.”
